

The technology partner of choice for properties of distinction.

Atec Systems & Technologies is a specialist South African telecommunications company that connects new residential estates, developments and apartment buildings and commercial or industrial parks to the 21st century.

ATEC provides developers with the infrastructure to technologically-enable properties. It also provides marketers, estate managers and property owners with top quality technology-based products and services. These easy-to-use solutions automate, connect and manage new properties more cost effectively and more conveniently than ever before.

Through technology, ATEC distinguishes new property developments from the rest. The private South African company provides state-of-the-art telecommunications infrastructure and connectivity on new estates as well as a single point of responsibility for potential telecommunications failure.

Property developers, consultants and residents find that ATEC's customised technology solutions also simplify the transition process as we become more technology dependent. That's because the solutions are developed by property development professionals for the property development industry.

With an outstanding reputation for efficient service delivery, ATEC is committed to providing cost-effective technology solutions without compromising on quality. Launched in 2004, the Cape Town based company is fully operational nationally with offices in Johannesburg and Durban.

Prepare for tomorrow. Embrace the communication revolution now. Contact ATEC today to find out how.
